Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from God Returns to the Vuelta Abajo: A Tale of the Cuban Vega IT was the latter part of August planters of Old Horseshoe, in Vuelta Abajo, were making seed beds. At the Sumidero, old Bernardo s vega, the men were down in the tumba, or clearing, some of them turning up long narrow beds in the mellow soil, and others burning off more land in preparation. The girl, Paula, coming: out of the palm-thatched cottage on the hill above with a tin of coffee for the workers, inhaled the pungent odor of smoke with delight. It meant planting time, and that is always the Spring of hope to far, m dwell ers. One forgets that it frequently pleases Heaven to send failure, and one remembers the happy years, the years of full harvest. Paula s father; Bernardo, was the wisest man in the world; so, if any money were made, he was sure to have his share. If the crop went well, he had promised her a trip to Consolacion in the ox - cart, and her choice of all...
