Gnome, United States, 2014. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . un-sight un-sound/ yet/ in vacuum of doubt s expel/ clamouring for beyond flesh what meat as if/ yet forage no/ not a/ eye crushed within fist of none/ echoing chamber of nothing/ never dispelled Un-Sight/ Un-Sound (delirium X.) is a prose-poetic work in three sequences: delirium X, Meat Sequence (after Francis Bacon), and Ghost-Limb Tongue. In the first, quotations from various authors (Bataille, Beckett, Luca, Popa et al.) are used as springboards for surreal imagistic fragmentation. The second section, inspired by Deleuze s Francis Bacon, deals with the subject of flesh/ meat and explores the concept of the human object divulged of identity/ place, stripped of ego, and viewed from an externus. The third section addresses the conflict between sense and the real and concludes with a collection of aphorisms written with regard to words becoming a bankrupt form of expression in the conflict between language and the Post-Human world . . . It is nice to see that language too can be broken and made to rot like everything else. - E. Elias Merhige.
