Twelve year-old Alec Kerley finds out, in an adventure he'll never forget! Alec's mom died six months ago, and his world is upside down. Now, it's just Alec and his dad, alone, together but apart. Making matters worse, Alec has discovered that his dad works for a secret government agency that investigates monsters - real, living, breathing monsters! When Alec joined his dad and the Gonzalezes, longtime family friends of the Kerleys, on what he thought was a short getaway to the Branson, Missouri area, he and his best friend Ken Gonzalez - along with Ken's sister Sarah and her pretty friend Emily - expected to stay in cabins with a swimming pool and a Jacuzzi. What they got instead was a close encounter with a wiggly kid named Ethan Elvis Edgar, who breaks wind whenever he gets scared, and a terrifying attack by a group of the fabled Bigfoots, who are not happy the vacationers are there. And what Alec learns through his experience is that faith and hope and healing can be found in the most unexpected places - even in the midst of the Terror of Bigfoot. Alec Kerley and the Terror of Bigfoot is an upper middle grade/young adult inspirational horror story for ages 12 and up. 22 chapters, 50,000 words. Excerpt: Slowly, Alec stood up. Ken joined him, and the two of them crept to the nearest living room window. Alec peered outside. It was dark out there, but he didn't see any sign of the Bigfoots. Relieved, he took a deep breath. He turned to the people huddled on the entryway floor with Danny and Mr. Gonzalez, whose head was now...
